IMPORTANT WORK OF TOWN COUNCIL

Hitching Posts in Centre Square must be removed. To Build Concrete Bridge on Washington Street. Other Business.

At a meeting of the town council Tuesday evening extensive improvements were determined upon and all the hitching posts in the Square were ordered removed, arrangements having been made with J. A. Ring to provide hitching ground in rear of Hotel Gettysburg.

Among the improvements will be a new concrete bridge over the Tiber on North Washington street. The present bridge is unsafe and has been flanked on either side with danger signs and red lanterns for several days and nights. A petition for a new bridge was received from North End residents and Council called to mind that President Granville asked for a new bridge there some time ago, promising that, if a concrete structure were built, the College would make changes and improvements in the meadow.

Council first considered repairing the present bridge, $32.64 being the estimated cost for new planks. After some discussion it was decided to do the thing right, for some time to come, and a concrete structure was accordingly determined upon. Borough Engineer Miller will be asked to draw up the plans at once and as soon as workmen are available the bridge will be constructed.

Council ratified the action of the highway committee in building the concrete intersection at Carlisle and Lincoln streets and ordered similar work done at the intersections of Baltimore and Middle streets and York and Stratton streets. An ordinance providing for concrete curbs in practically every part of town was given preliminary action and ordered advertised. The final passage of this ordinance will permit council to lay the curbs whenever it is deemed advisable without special ordinance.

The action regarding the removal of the hitching posts in the Square is the outcome of more or less general opposition for some years and in spite of a petition received from a number of merchants requesting that the posts be allowed to remain. The arrangement made for the erection of new posts in the rear of Hotel Gettysburg solved the difficulty and the borough will erect the posts there which will be available to all those who desire to use them. These grounds are to be under care of the borough until Mr. Ring starts operations on the extension of the hotel.

The town council indicated that this arrangement is in the nature of an experiment and that if it is found to work to the detriment of the business of the town some other provision will have to be made.

The highway committee reported that the cost to the borough for the proposed change on Broadway which would provide a park in the center of the street, was estimated at $1138.28. As several members of council were absent it was decided to defer action until August 27. Mr. Butt and Mr. Tawney were the members absent. Martin Winter agreed to hold open his offer to furnish shale etc., until that time.

A communication was received from the Western Maryland Railway Company promising to do the grading work required on the west bank of Rock Creek in connection with the street under the tracks at that point.

F. B. Deardorff submitted to council a bid of $1.10 per ton for crushed stone delivered for street or concrete work.

The ordinance ordaining Water street extension was passed.

Burgess Holtzworth returned to council the back license ordinance with a number of reasons for vetoing the measure, the principal one of which was the manner in which it affected the established liverymen. The measure will come up for reconsideration at the adjourned meeting on August 27.

HARRISBURG GETS IT

Harrisburg gets the annual meeting of the State D. A. R. for this fall. The organization met here last year and it has since been rumored that it would meet in Gettysburg again this fall.

ELECTED TWO NEW TEACHERS

School Board Elects Miss Frances Fritchey and Miss Maud Miller to Fill Vacancies in Town Teaching Force.

At a special meeting of the school board Tuesday evening two new teachers were elected. Miss Frances Fritchey for art in the High School and Miss Maud Miller, for the sixth grade.

Miss Fritchey will fill the position made vacant by Miss Kieffer's decision to take a year's study at Columbia; while Miss Miller takes the position made vacant by the resignation of Miss Ruth Hamilton.

Both are residents of Gettysburg and teachers of experience. Miss Fritchey received her education at Gettysburg College and Randolph Macon after which she taught at Blackstone Academy for two years. Miss Miller has been a teacher in the county schools for about eight years.

The selection of a person to take charge of the manual training work in the High School has not yet been made. A local carpenter who will have charge of the other part of this course will be procured. The contract for the tools for this department was awarded on Tuesday evening by the supply committee to the lowest bidder, the Gettysburg Department Store.

Walter Carter was appointed janitor for the Colored School.

The Board has been active in putting the schools in attractive shape for the coming year. New desks were purchased, old ones scraped and polished, sets of maps purchased for the sixth and seventh grades and the High street building being given special attention.

AUTOS MAKE ROAD PROBLEM

"The greatest problem confronting the road builders the world over," says State Highway Commissioner Bigelow, "is the surfacing of the roads. The automobile tears out the macadam in a short time, and this will continue with the introduction of the big auto trucks into general use. One of these machines carrying a load of six or seven tons is hard on the highways. Many experiments are being made and new mixtures are being offered us for trial. Anything which looks feasible is tested."

TO FORM WILSON CLUB

A public meeting for the purpose of forming a Wilson and Marshall Club will be held in the Court House Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. A permanent organization will be effected and there will likely be several addresses. All citizens of Gettysburg and Adams County who are interested are invited and urged to attend. Committee.

INSPECTION OF MILK SEPTEMBER 1

Beginning with September there will be an inspection of all the cattle, hams, dairies and farms in Pennsylvania, with a view of detecting diseased cows and keeping the milk supply pure. This action was decided upon at a meeting of the corps of inspectors, under State Veterinarian Clarence J. Marshall, held at the University of Pennsylvania.

BILL PASSED

The general deficiency bill, which includes, among other things, an appropriation of $150,000 toward the celebration of the fiftieth anniversary of the battle passed the House of Representatives on Tuesday. The Senate is expected to pass it within the next few days.

TEACHERS ELECTED

The following teachers have been elected for the Liberty township schools: Liberty Hall, Preston Hull; Tract, Charles Carbaugh; Oak Grove, Blanche McClell; Grayson's, Ralph Dubel; Miney Creek, Grace Carbaugh; Valley, Joseph Cool.

COL. CORNWELL A SUICIDE

CIVIC NURSE IS ASSURED

Town Meeting in the Court House Elects Board of Directors and the Necessary Officers. Instructed to Procure Nurse.

Gettysburg is to have a civic nurse. This was finally decided at a town meeting held in the Court House on Tuesday evening when an organization was effected and the directors instructed to engage the services of a nurse and make all necessary arrangements for conducting the work.

Dr. J. A. Singmaster presided, and short speeches were made by Rev. G. N. Lauffer, of Newville, who told of the great success of the proposition in that town; by Rev. F. E. Taylor who said that between $600 and $650 had been raised by popular subscription for the support of the nurse, and by several others present.

Those who desire the services of the nurse and are able to pay will be expected to do so, according to their means, but citizens to whom she ministers and are not able to pay anything will be just as welcome to her services as those who are more fortunate.

The expenses are to be met by popular subscription. These will include the salary, rooms and telephone for the nurse who will be at the call of every citizen regardless of creed or color. The constitution and by-laws of the local association were adopted provisionally to come up for final action at the first annual meeting to be held on October 1.

The following officers and board of directors were chosen on Tuesday evening, president, Dr. J. A. Singmaster; first vice president, Rev. F. E. Taylor; second vice president, Mrs. C. Roy Miller; secretary, Mrs. Donald P. McPherson; treasurer, Irvin L. Taylor; members, Mrs. Karl J. Grimm, Mrs. Wm. Arch McClean, C. S. Reaser, Martin Winter, George E. Spangler, Mrs. Charles S. Duncan, Mrs. Luther Kuhlman, Miss Annie Horner, William McSherry, Esq., Dr. L. A. Parsons.

Persons wishing to contribute to the project may leave subscriptions with the treasurer.

The Chautauqua chorus gave several much appreciated selections during the evening.

TAIL ENDERS TRADE

The College base ball team gave up its position at the foot of the column in the Sunday School League on Tuesday evening by defeating the Presbyterians 6 to 4 in a game where errors and lively hitting kept the spectators happy. Incidentally the defeated team now falls into last place. Collection $2.06.

The Presbyterians got one in their half of the first which College duplicated in the second. The Blue Stockings came back in the third with three runs but College was game and piled up four in the fourth and one more in the fifth.

SCOUTS ENJOY CAMP ACTIVITY

Boy Scouts and their Camp Near Boiling Springs Please Visitors. Having Fine Time, Boating, Fishing and Visiting Park.

Camp Old "68," Island Grove, Aug. 7.—The Gettysburg Boy Scouts are having a high old time with every day full of pleasure and enjoyment. From their arrival on the camp site at 10.30 Monday morning until now every minute has been full of activity. The freight car with baggage arrived shortly after the Scouts and the unloading was quickly begun, facilitated by the kindly offer of the boatman in charge of the launch to handle all camp supplies free of charge.

The pretty park presents quite a military appearance now. Along row of canvas tents forms a company street, with the headquarters tent at its end and facing down the line. The khaki clad youngsters with their peaked hats look very soldier-like and visitors to camp are delighted with everything.

The matter of cook was finally settled in the choosing of Camp Master Flagle as chief cook and Hockey Buehler, as assistant. The detail aiding these two will be five men each day. John Sachs, director of athletics, arrived at noon Monday and immediately gave a call for base ball and swimming. The water is too cold for good bathing but fishing is excellent.

Along the social line, the boys visited the park, Lentz and Menchey being most successful in charming the fair maidens. While the boys were at the park, Ed. Ross and Eh. Codori came to headquarters with several very pretty girls and after the usual courtesies, the ladies declared their tent clearest in the camp.

Bill Blair, Scouts Homan, Stall-smith and Sachs reported having "skated" to camp at a terrible rate.

SURFACE SAYS FRUIT IS SHORT

Central and Southern Pennsylvania will not begin to have anything like the usual fruit crops this year and the stories being circulated through counties in this part of the state to the effect that we are to have a bumper crop of this or that fruit are either due to ignorance or to buyers who are now out gathering in early crops," said State Zoologist H. A. Surface in speaking about the general fruit crop.

"The situation is largely the same in the eastern and western parts of the state, where orchards, unless well sheltered, were hit hard by the severe weather of last winter," continued the doctor. "Now I'll venture to say that the apple crop of Pennsylvania will not run more than 50 per cent of what it ordinarily is in spite of claims to the contrary, and as for peaches, I doubt whether the crop in this section is going to run much above 5 per cent."

WILL NAME TICKET TODAY

The Progressives to Nominate Roosevelt and Johnson.

NEGRO QUESTION BOBS UP

Colonel Explains His Position Before Convention and Is Greeted With Uproar of Cheers.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—The ticket of the National Progressive Party to be nominated today will probably be Theodore Roosevelt, of New York, for president, and Governor Hiram Johnson, of California, for vice president.

After the nominations are made Colonel Roosevelt and Governor Johnson will appear before the convention and formally accept.

The convention was called to order today by Temporary Chairman Beveridge. The hall was packed with delegates, who, assisted by the band, made considerable noise.

Mr. Beveridge was retained as permanent chairman of the convention, Judge Lindsey, of Colorado, feeling that he ought not to accept the place at this time.

It was a great assemblage of enthusiasts. It is safe to say that the vast majority had been Republicans. Yet on all sides were Democrats and Independents. All represented a concrete mass of voters and would-be voters who are opposed to the two old parties.

One of the features of this convention is the singing. All join in the songs with old-fashioned camp meeting fervor. The great band was well supplied with trombones, clarinettes, cymbals, cellos and drums and there was sort of a minute gun arrangement which was shot off during the singing of the National Anthem or the Star Spangled Banner or the Battle Hymn of the Republic. The effect was not only tremendously dramatic, but there was also a tingling of the nerves seldom felt on occasions of this kind.

During Colonel Roosevelt's speech yesterday he stated that he would be happy to answer all questions put to him as he went along. His remark that he did not regard a homily on honesty, by a detracted pickpocket, as an edifying spectacle, brought out laughter and cheers. His assertion that in case of a Democratic victory there would be no prosperity to pass around was happily greeted. "How about the liquor question?" he was asked. To which he replied: "Oh, go to a primary school and study it." was an answer which brought from a number of delegates cries that the offender who had put this question should be put out.

Then came a most interesting scene at the close, when Colonel Roosevelt was asked: "How about the negro question?" He pulled from his pocket a letter from Julian Harris, son of Uncle Remus, in reply to Colonel Roosevelt's long letter to him on the subject. Colonel Roosevelt read but a portion of the letter, that part which justified Roosevelt's attitude, and which read: "Under these conditions it will become for the first time possible that the negro who shows the quality which entitles him to respect and confidence will, with the cordial good will of his white neighbors, do his part in healthy political work for the common good."

Colonel Roosevelt followed with a special speech on the negro question. It was his first public utterance on the subject, which has caused disturbance throughout the land.

The colonel proceeded at some length to state his views on the race question. He declared he hoped conditions might so improve in the south that at future Progressive conventions those states might send as delegates colored men who would have the character and standing of the colored delegates from West Virginia, who, he asserted, were in those respects the equal of their white associates.

In taking the stand he did to bar the colored men sent from the south as contesting delegates to the present convention, Colonel Roosevelt asserted he was stilling in advance conditions which had led to "the crushing disaster and death of the great Republican party itself."

With the close of Colonel Roosevelt's speech on the negro question there was another uproar of cheers and jubilation, which was closed by the convention singing an anthem entitled "Roosevelt to the strains of 'Maryland, My Maryland.'"

The report of the credentials committee, unanimously adopted, contained a resolution recognizing "the constitutional and inherent right of each and every state to determine the qualifications and manner of election of its delegates to national conventions."

This resolution was regarded as giving the southern states the right to choose delegates as they pleased. It also was interpreted as not imposing the direct primary system upon any of the states participating in the conventions of the new party.

CORNWELL KILLS HIMSELF ON TRAIN

Fires Fatal Shot While in Custody of Constable.

MAY BE SHORT $200,000

Lawyer Suspected of Squandering Large Chester County Estates of Which He Was In Charge.

Philadelphia, Aug. 7.—Colonel Gibbons Gray Cornwell, a prominent lawyer of West Chester, and commander of the Sixth regiment, N. G. P., committed suicide on a Pennsylvania railroad train from New York to Philadelphia.

Cornwell was seated in front of Constable William Mullen, of West Chester, who was an old friend. Mullen was bringing him from New York to West Chester. As the train pulled out of the North Philadelphia station the prisoner reached for his handbag. He opened it and quickly pulling out a large army revolver, placed it in his mouth hand pulled the trigger. The constable saw the action too late to prevent it.

Just before leaving New York city Colonel Cornwell was searched by the New York police, so how the weapon came to be in his possession is a mystery.

The bullet tore through the roof of his mouth and came out on top of his head. Conductor Booz, in charge of the train, stopped it at a telegraph signal tower between North and West Philadelphia stations and an ambulance was telegraphed for.

Colonel Cornwell died before the West Philadelphia station was reached. The physician in charge of the University hospital ambulance, which was waiting at the West Philadelphia station, pronounced him dead. The body was then turned over to the police of the Thirty-ninth street and Lancaster avenue station, who took it to the morgue in the patrol wagon.

Constable Mullen was placed under arrest and was locked up at the Thirty-ninth street and Lancaster avenue station.

Constable William Mullen left West Chester for New York with a warrant sworn out by Alfred Sharpless, one of the executors of the Derrick estate, charging Cornwell with the larceny of two bonds belonging to that estate.

An investigation made in West Chester showed that Cornwell & Cornwell had the handling of estates amounting to $205,000.

As developments are reached in the matter the amount gradually grows. It may reach $200,000. The shortages are confined to private estates being handled by the colonel. It is said all the shortages are due to his dealings in stocks, in which he has been a heavy loser for many months. It is not believed the alleged defalcations cover more than two years at the most, but they were heavy during that time.

One of the largest estates involved now appears to be that of the late Captain George W. Roberts, of Allerton, a handsome country place west of West Chester, where Mrs. Roberts and her son, George W., Jr., now make their home. When seen, Mr. Roberts volunteered the information that the estate may be heavily involved, although no examination has been attempted. At the death of Captain Roberts his wealth was variously estimated at sums ranging between $100,000 and $200,000. No accounting could be secured from the colonel for the last two years.

Some time ago Company I, Sixth regiment, disposed of its armory building to St. Agnes' church, which has since erected a fine parochial school upon the ground. By the sale $4500 in cash was received by the company, and this amount was turned over to Colonel Cornwell for investment. In what it is invested is not known by any of the officers, nor has any accounting ever been received of its disposition or even hinted at by the colonel.

The announcement of Colonel Cornwell's resignation as commanding officer of the Sixth regiment was made by Brigadier General Coryell, N. G. P., at West Chester. He received the resignation by mail from New York.

The first actual indication of serious developments came when two personal judgment notes, one for $800 and the other for $400, were entered against Cornwell in the prothonotary's office at West Chester. Both are for personal loans, one upon the National Bank of Chester County and the other given at the First National bank, of West Chester.

It developed that Mrs. Cornwell had an interview with her husband at the Grand Central station in New York last Friday, at which time he confessed to her that he was short in his accounts. She urged him to be a man and return with her to West Chester to face his creditors, but he broke down and cried like a child, declaring that he could not do it.

Colonel Cornwell revealed that he was in New York by telephoning to his wife. Mrs. Cornwell said her husband had been speculating in stocks.

Alleges Employer Crippled Her For Life.

Pittsburgh, Pa., Aug. 7. — Morris Kaufmann, millionaire, head of the firm of Kaufmann Brothers, owners of a department store here, was sued for $20,000 damages by Miss Rose Zeidman, twenty years old, a former employee of the firm.

In the action filed by her attorneys the girl charges the elderly Kaufmann with causing injuries to her that will cripple her for life. Kaufmann refuses to make a statement. Morris Kaufmann is sixty years old and married.

Less than two years ago Theodore Kaufmann, a nephew of Morris, was sued by a young married woman, who alleged that while she was in the Kaufmann store Theodore attacked her. This case was settled out of court. Theodore resigned from the firm and has left Pittsburgh.

Miss Zeidman says that nearly a year ago Morris Kaufmann began forcing his attentions upon her. "He would come up when I was not looking and pinch me terribly," said Miss Zeidman. "Other times when he was passing me he would bump me as hard as he could with his elbow."

T. R. WILL CARRY KANSAS

Returns Indicate He Will Beat Taft by 25,000.

Topeka, Kan., Aug. 7.—Definite returns of the primary election held in Kansas will not be known before to night on the state, congressional and legislative tickets.

Only a few scattering returns from a dozen of the 200 precincts of the state have been reported, and they show that the Roosevelt electors are leading the Taft ticket and they indicate that Roosevelt will beat Taft in Kansas by 25,000. Stubbins is leading Curtis for United States senator.

Arthur Capper, Republican, is nominated for governor over Frank J. Ryan, and it appears that George P. Hodges has won the Democratic nomination for governor.

ROLLA WELLS

WILSON'S TREASURER

Former Mayor of St. Louis to Handle Democratic Cash.

Trenton, N. J., Aug. 7. — Governor Wilson announced the appointment of Rolla Wells, former mayor of St. Louis, Mo., to be treasurer of the national Democratic committee, and of Charles R. Crane, of Chicago, to be vice chairman of the finance committee, of which Henry Morganthau, of New York, has been chosen chairman.

"We want to take the government out of the hands of trustees and put it in the hands of those we can trust." This was Governor Woodrow Wilson's first campaign utterance as he addressed a delegation of 200 Democrats from Delaware led by the national committeeman, Willard Saulsbury. Mr. Saulsbury had declared that Delaware hoped through his influence to be redeemed "from the dishonor that has been put upon her by the political supremacy of the trust millionaire and the public service corporations which she still endures with indignation, impatience and disgust."

"The government of New Jersey was very bad," said Governor Wilson in reply, "but the people were sound to the core and all they were waiting for was some means through which they could express themselves. We had tied ourselves up by some very ingenious political arrangement which made it difficult for the people to choose their own candidates and have their own way. I am sure Delaware will act as New Jersey has."

K. OF C. ASSETS GROW

Supreme Secretary Reports Them as Being About $4,000,000.

New Haven, Conn., Aug. 7.—The annual report of Father J. McGinley, supreme secretary of the Knights of Columbus, was made public.

According to the document the Knights received this year $1,541,715.69, bringing the assets of the organization, exclusive of special funds, up to about $4,000,000. This shows a growth of half a million dollars in assets over the preceding year.

Organization liabilities on account of death benefits were $83,333.35. Of this amount $35,000 in claims has been adjusted and paid. The insurance reserve liabilities totaled $2,387,298.

The report further states that the mortality experience for the past year was less than the tabular expectation and more favorable than that for the average of the past seven years. The total membership is placed at 232,748.

Negro Slayer Is Killed by Posse.
Clarksville, Tex., Aug. 7.—Leonard Potts, a negro, who for a week eluded hundreds of citizens, was shot and killed by a posse near Detroit, Tex. Death Wipes Out G. A. R. Post.
Binghamton, N. Y., Aug. 7.—Hawley post, G. A. R., is no more. The last of its fifty members, Andrew Meeker, was buried Monday in the presence of a little delegation of gray-haired, sobbing men from Watrous post, No. 39, of Binghamton. Daniel L. Cline, the forty-ninth member, died last winter.

Doctor Sews His Nose Back.
York, Pa., Aug. 7.—Robert Swartz, employed at a manufacturing plant, was hit in the face by a piece of flying machinery upon which he was working and his nose was nearly severed from his face. It was necessary for a physician to sew the member back. Swartz received other serious injuries.

DEATH THREATS SEAL ROSE'S LIPS

Becker's Accuser Fails to Give Graft List.

INFORMERS IN FEAR OF LIVES

Three Gamblers Who Confessed Have Been Intimidated in Jail and Expect to Be Killed.

New York, Aug. 7.—Death threats have been repeatedly sent to "Bald Jack" Rose, "Bridge" Webber and Harry Valion, who have made confessions showing alleged relations between the police and gamblers, and all three prisoners are in a state of panic over fears that their lives may be taken.

The three gamblers say that they expect to be killed if they are taken through the streets to court. It is reported that the prisoners have been intimidated by emissaries who have been smuggled into the West Side jail.

A letter received by Rose, which was mailed in Brooklyn, was turned over to the postoffice authorities by Rose's lawyer, James Sullivan. It is signed "The Crowd," and is in the same handwriting as other threatening letters bearing the same signature which have been sent to Rose. The letter is as follows:

"Brooklyn, Aug. 2, Midnight.
"Mr. Rose—I suppose you think by testifying and squealing that you will get out easy. But you must remember you are dead either way. Whether you turn in all the facts or not we will reach you as soon as you come out, and will teach you and other squealers a lesson. The others will get theirs, too.
"You had better shut up and say no more, for you are involving high officials in this case, and you will surely die either way."

"THE CROWD."
District Attorney Whitman paid a visit to "Jack" Rose. The cause of the call of the district attorney was kept secret, but it is known that Mr. Whitman has been informed of a disposition on the part of Rose to stop right where he stands as a witness for the people in the case against Lieutenant Becker.

Rose's friends say he is in possession of an absolute guarantee of immunity, based on what he has already told. Fortified by the hope of protection from the courts, Rose is now said to have laid his plans to insure himself a measure of protection from the other side—the interests concerned in smothering any further disclosures as to the levying of a tax by the police upon gamblers and disorderly resort keepers.

It is not in the district attorney's line of knowledge that Rose is to repudiate the confession he made to the effect that Lieutenant Becker, alarmed because Herman Rosenthal was to give the district attorney evidence of grafting on Becker's part, ordered the assassination of the gambler. The proposition is that Rose will stand pat on what he has told, maintain that his knowledge goes no farther and let the district attorney struggle along with the case he has in hand, bolstered up as it may be by corroboration which may be gathered through Burns' detectives or other outside sources.

Thus far the only specific evidence the district attorney has of police grafting was furnished by Rose, and the corroboration in a small measure by "Bridge" Webber and Harry Valion. Rose has failed to deliver the list of gamblers who, he asserted, paid protection money to Becker. He has failed to bolster up his statement that police graft from gambling amounted to $2,400,000 a year.

Rose has no money. His brothers and other relatives are not wealthy. Nevertheless the rumor persists that there is plenty of money at Rose's disposal, providing he proceeds no farther than he has gone in the way of helping the district attorney.

The news has reached Lieutenant Becker, and that astute policeman sees in the new development a plot to make him the "goat" in the Rosenthal murder case, with the ultimate effect of befouling the graft issue.

TO PROBE WOMAN'S DEATH

Man With Her Says She Died as He Went For Medicine.

Chester, Pa., Aug. 7.—Joseph Beaver was held without bail by Police Magistrate Elliott to await the result of the coroner's inquest in the case of Mary Knight, who died under mysterious circumstances.

Beaver was found standing over the woman's dead body. He was brought to the city lockup and the body was placed in charge of Deputy Coroner White.

Beaver says he and the woman had spent the greater part of the evening visiting moving picture shows. She complained later of severe pains and he hurried to a drug store for medicine. When he returned he found her lying lifeless.

Girl Decapitates Father.
Richmond, Tex., Aug. 7. — Because her father, J. W. Williams, a farmer living near here, refused to permit her to go on a visit to her aunt, Pearl Williams, thirteen years old, cut his head off with an axe while he was asleep. The girl was placed in jail here.

MORE U. S. MARINES TO GO TO NICARAGUA

Ordered From Panama to Reinforce Those Now There.

Washington, Aug. 7.—Marines from Panama have been ordered to Nicaragua to supplement the force of blue jackets now in Managua guarding the Americans and their property.

The collier Justin, now steaming from San Juan del Sur, was ordered to Panama to embark 350 marines for Corinto.

The Justin was at sea and nearing Corinto when the radiograph was flashed to her. The vessel had left San Juan del Sur Saturday. It will take her approximately three days to reach Panama, and one day to take the marines and their full equipment on board. It will then take approximately four days to return to Corinto.

The marines may not be landed when they do reach Corinto. It was said at the state department that it was thought prudent to have the force ready.

The sending of the marine force is really a further compliance with the request of the Nicaraguan government and the American minister that the United States undertake to protect foreigners and their interests in Nicaragua.

BEEF HIGHER STILL

World's Record Price Topped by Last Quotations.

Chicago, Aug. 7.—True to the predictions made last week, when a new world's record for high prices of beef was set, the market price was $10 for the best beef.

That was the highest price ever recorded in the Chicago market, except in cases of single prize animals. A higher price was set for corned steers, several of the choice beefs being bid at $10. Armour & Co. and Swift & Co. were bidding against each other when the price touched the high mark.

CHAPTER XI.

In Which Captain Eben Makes Port.

Half past eight. In the vestry of the Regular church John Ellery was conducting his prayer meeting. The attendance was as large as usual. Three seats, however, were vacant, and along the settees people were wondering where Captain Elkanah Daniels and his daughter might be. They had not missed a service for many a day. And where was Keziah Coffin?

At the Come-Outer chapel the testifying and singing were in full blast.

He Did Not Answer or Look Up.

But Ezekiel Bassett was leading, for Captain Eben Hammond had not made his appearance. Neither had Grace Van Horne, for that matter, but Captain Eben's absence was the most astonishing.

In the Regular parsonage Keziah sat alone by the sitting-room table. Prayer meeting and supper she had forgotten entirely. The minister had not come home for his evening meal, and food was furthest from the house-keeper's thoughts. What should she do? What ought she to do? How could she avert the disaster so certain to overwhelm those two young people the moment their secret became known?

She rose and again donned her bonnet and shawl. She was about to blow out the lamp when she heard rapid footsteps—the sound of some one running along the sidewalk in front of the house. As she listened, the footsteps sounded on the path. Whoever the runner was he was coming to the parsonage. She stepped to the door and opened it.

The runner was a boy, Maria Higgins' boy Isaac, whose widowed mother lived down by the shore. He did the chores at the Hammond tavern. His freckled face was dripping with perspiration and he puffed and blew like a stranded whale.

"Have ye—have ye," panted Ike, "have ye seen the doctor anywhere, Mis' Coffin?"

"Who? Dr. Parker? Have I seen—what in the world are you comin' here after the doctor for?"

"'Cause—'cause I didn't know where else to come. I been to his house and he ain't to home. Nobody ain't to home. His wife, Mis' Parker, she's gone up to Boston yes'day on the coach, and—and it's all dark and the house door's open and the shay's gone, so—"

"Who's sick? Who wants him?"

"And—and—all the rest of the houses round here was shut up 'cause everybody's to meetin'." I peeked in at the meetin' house and he ain't there, and I see your light and—"

"Who's sick? Tell me that, won't you?"

"Cap'n Eben. He's awful sick. I cal'late he's goin' to die, and Gracie she—"

"Cap'n Eben? Eben Hammond! Dym? What are you talkin' about?"

"Huh! huh!" puffed the messenger impatiently. "Didn't I tell ye? Cap'n Eben's adyln'. I seen him. All white and still and—and awful. And Gracie, she's all alone and—"

"Hold on! Stop! I'll tell you where the doctor is most likely. Up to Mrs. Prince's. She's been poorly and he's prob'ly been called there. Run! run fast as ever you can and get him and I'll go to Grace this minute. The poor thing! Don't tell anybody. Not a soul but the doctor. Half this town'll be runnin' to find out if you do, and that poor girl must be distressed already. I'll go to her. You get Dr. Parker and tell him to hurry."

"I'll tell him; don't you fret."

He was gone, running harder than ever. A moment later Keziah followed him, running also.

As she ran on, a rattle of wheels and the thud of hoofs came from behind her. Then a rocking chaise, drawn by a galloping horse, shot by. Dr. Parker's carriage, she was sure. The Higgins boy must have met the doctor and delivered his message.

The horse and chaise were standing by the front gate of the tavern as she pantingly drew near it. The side door of the house was ajar and she opened it softly and entered. The dining room was empty. There was a light on the sitting-room table and low voices came from the little bedroom adjoining. Then, from the bedroom, emerged Dr. Parker and Grace Van Horne. The girl was white and there were dark circles under her eyes. The doctor was very grave.

Keziah stepped forward and held out both hands. Grace looked, recognized her, and with a cry ran toward her. Keziah took her in her arms and soothed her as if she were a child.

"Well, well, dear," went on Mrs. Coffin hurriedly. "He will be better soon, we'll hope. You mustn't give up the ship, you know. Now you go and lay down somewhere and I'll get my things off and see what there is to do. Some good strong tea might be good for all hands, I guess likely. Where's Hannah Poundberry?"

"She's gone to her cousin's to stay all night. I suppose I ought to send for her, but I—"

"No, no, you hadn't. Might's well send for a poll parrot, the critter would be just as much good and talk less. I'll look out for things, me and the doctor. Where's—where's Nat?"

"He came in just after I sent the boy for the doctor. He's in there with—"

"With him," indicating the bedroom. "Poor Nat!"

Keziah looked longingly toward the door.

"Yes," she said slowly. "Poor fellow, it's an awful shock to him. He and his father are— But there! you lay down on that lounge!"

Grace, protesting that she couldn't sit down, she couldn't leave uncle, and there were so many things to do, was at last persuaded by Keziah and the doctor to rest for a few moments in the big rocker. Then Mrs. Coffin went into the kitchen to prepare the tea. As she went, she beckoned to Dr. Parker, who joined her a moment later.

"Well, doctor?" she asked anxiously. The stout, gray-haired old physician—he had practiced in Trumet for nearly thirty years—shook his head.

"Not a single chance," he whispered. "He may possibly live till morning, but I doubt if he lasts an hour. It's his heart. I've expected it at any time."

Captain Nat was standing at the door of the bedroom. His face was drawn and he had seemingly grown years older since noon.

"He's come to himself, doc," he whispered. "He don't remember how it happened or anything. And he wants us all. Why? why, Keziah! are you here? You can come in, too. I know dad likes you and I guess—"

Wait a minute; I'll ask him." He stepped back into the bedroom. "Yes," he nodded, returning, "you come, too. He wants you."

The little room, Captain Eben's own, was more like a skipper's cabin than a chamber on land. In the corner stood the captain's big boots and his oilskins hung about them. His Sunday cane was there also. And on the bureau was a worn, heavy Bible.

Dr. Parker brushed by the others and bent over the bed.

"Well, cap'n," he said cheerily, "how's he headed? How are you feeling now?"

The old face on the pillow smiled feebly.

"She's headed for home, I guess, doc," said Captain Eben. "Bound for home, and the harbor light broad abeam, I cal'late."

"Oh, no! you'll make a good many voyages yet."

"Not in this hulk, I won't, doctor. I hope I'll have a new command pretty soon. I'm trustin' in my owners and I guess they'll do the fair thing by me. Halloo, Gracie, girl! Well, your old uncle's on his beam ends, ain't he?"

Grace glanced fearfully at his face. When he spoke her name she shrank back, as if she feared what he might say. But he only smiled as, with the tears streaming down her face, she bent over and kissed him.

"There! there!" he protested. "You mustn't cry. What are you cryin' about me for? I'm fit and ready for the sea I'm goin' to sail." His eyes wandered from his son to Mrs. Coffin. For an instant he seemed puzzled. Then he said:

"Evenin', Keziah. I don't know why you're here, but—"

"I heard that Grace was alone and that you was sick, Eben. So I come right down, to help if I could."

"Thank ye. You're a good-hearted woman, Keziah, even though you ain't seen the true light yet. And you're housekeeper for that hired priest—a—"

He paused, and a troubled look came over his face.

"What is it, dad?" asked Nat.

"I—I— Where's Gracie? She's here, ain't she?"

"Yes, uncle, I'm here. Here I am," said the girl. His fingers groped for her hand and seized it.

"Yes, yes, you're here," murmured Captain Eben. "I—I—for a minute or so, I—I had an awful dream about you, Gracie. I dreamed— Never mind. Doc, answer me this now, true and honest, man to man: Can you keep me here for just a little spell longer? Can you? Try! Ten minutes, say. Can you?"

"Of course I can. Cap'n Hammond, what are you—"

"Belay, I tell you. Yes, I guess 'twas a dream. It had to be, but 'twas so sort of real that I— How long have I been this way?"

"Oh, a little while! Now just—"

"Hush! Don't pull your hand away, Gracie. Nat, give me yours. That's it. Now I put them two hands together. See, doctor? See, Keziah?"

"Don't, uncle, don't!" pleaded Grace. "Don't worry about me. Think of yourself, please."

"S-sh-sh! Don't put me off. Just listen. I want you to marry my boy, after I'm gone. I want you to say you will—say it now, so's I can hear it. Will you, Gracie?"

Grace would have withdrawn her hand, but he would not let her. He clung to it and to that of his son with all his failing strength.

"Will you, Gracie?" he begged. "It's the last thing I'm goin' to ask of you. I've tried to be sort of good to you, in my way, and—"

"Don't, don't!" she sobbed. "Let me think a minute, uncle, dear. Oh, do let me think!"

"Keziah Coffin!" cried Nat Hammond, "Do you Tell Me to Marry Grace?"

"Won't you say it for me, Gracie?" pleaded Captain Eben. She hesitated no longer.

"Yes, uncle," she answered through tears, "if Nat wants me he can have me."

Keziah clasped her hands. Captain Eben's face lit up with a great joy.

"Thank the Almighty!" he exclaimed. "Lord, I do thank you. Nat, boy, you're considerable older than she is and you'll have to plan for her. You be a good husband to her all her days, won't ye? Why, what are you waitin' for? Why don't you answer me?"

Nat groaned aloud.

"A minute, dad," he stammered. "Just give me a minute, for Heaven sakes! Keziah—"

"Keziah!" repeated Eben. "Keziah? What are you talkin' to her for? She knows there couldn't be no better match in the world. You do know it, don't ye, Keziah?"

"Yes," said Keziah slowly. "I guess—I guess you're right, Eben."

"Keziah Coffin," cried Nat Hammond, "do you tell me to marry Grace?"

"Yes, Nat, I—I think your father's right."

"Then—then—what difference does—"

All right, dad. Just as Grace says."

"Thank God!" cried Captain Eben. "Doctor, you and Mrs. Coffin are witnesses to this. There! now my decks are clear and I'd better get ready to land. Gracie, girl, the Good Book's over there on the bureau. Read me a chapter, won't you?"

An hour later Keziah sat alone in the dining room. She had stolen away when the reading began. Dr. Parker, walking very softly, came to her and laid his hand on her shoulder.

"He's gone," he said simply.

"CAN'T YOU HELP MY BABY?"

Mothers Of Eczema Tortured Children Ask Us This.

Of all the ills of childhood none causes more suffering than eczema and the other itching, burning rashes that drive the little ones almost frantic.

Nowadays when mothers ask us 'Can't you help my baby get relief from eczema,' we can say, 'Yes.' Our new skin remedy, Saxo Salve, has worked some very remarkable cures here, not only for children but adults as well.

Its first effect is to stop the terrible itching and burning, and make the skin comfortable. Then it is absorbed right into the skin, destroying the germ and exerting its healing power at the seat of the disease.

We guarantee Saxo Salve to give satisfaction when used for eruptions and skin troubles, of any kind paying back your money if it does not.
